

SESAR presents top speakers at its ATC Global

This year's conferences organised by the SESAR Joint Undertaking in the framework of ATC Global 2011 in Amsterdam come up with top speakers from the aviation world. Present at the SESAR Forum (8 March 2011, afternoon) are for example Matthew Baldwin, recently appointed Director Air Transport of the European Commission, David McMillan, Director General of Eurocontrol, and Ben Berend from KLM. The SESAR management will detail the SESAR Release 2011 for the first time during this conference.

The Interoperability Symposium (9 March 2011, morning) will start off with a keynote speech from Nancy Graham, ICAO Director Air Navigation Bureau, and will include amongst others Carey Fagan, FAA Executive Director for International Affairs, as well as top speakers from Airbus and Boeing, the European Aviation Safety Agency and the Brazilian Department of Airspace Control.

During the four technical workshops (9 March 2011, whole day) experts from the SESAR Joint Undertaking and the members will detail SESAR's concepts for Green ATM, Avionics, Data Communications and SWIM. Do also not forget to pass by the SESAR booth in hall 9 to meet the experts directly.

Registration to the conferences and workshops is free of charge and can be done on the ATC Global website directly. For more information on SESAR during ATC Global 2011, visit our website www.sesarju.eu/atc.

SESAR Release: first validation exercises kick off

In February, the first two validation exercises in the framework of the SESAR Release 2011 take place. The first SESAR Release will present to the aviation community initial results of the SESAR programme by the end of this year. The aim of the plan is to re-group projects and validation exercises to deliver together with the SESAR members as early as possible in the programme lifecycle tangible results at a pre-industrialisation stage.
